LIVE AT THE MUSIC ROOM is Troy’s most invigorating and toe-tapping release yet and was recently chosen as the East Coast Music Association’s Instrumental Recording of the Year. The ECMA’s are a four-day music industry conference and ceremony which took place in Fredericton this year. The event culminated in a gala on Sunday night at the Aitken Centre in Fredericton in which over 20 awards were distributed honouring the best in East Coast music over the past year. Live At The Music Room is MacGillivray’s 4th solo release. Despite the fact that all of his previous recordings have received ECMA nominations, this release marks the first time MacGillivray has received the award. "People have been asking me for the past three or four years to make a live CD. Last year, the timing was finally right. The Music Room is a great facility to play in and the whole idea just came together in a matter of days. We had a fun night and the tracks sounded so good, that I just decided ‘why not’."

Thank you

... to everyone who has supported me and my music over the years and especially to my peers for recognizing Live At The Music Room for the ECMA Award this year. Words cannot adequately express my overwhelming sense of pride and pleasure in being able to work with the best in the business to create this CD! Thank you to Allan Dewar, Dave MacIsaac, Brad Davidge, Sabra MacGillivray, Tyler Myalls and Chris Irschick for their valuable contributions—I couldn’t have done it without you!

Upcoming Project ... Watch for Troy’s next release, “When There Meets Here”, a compilation recording with Canadian & US National Fiddle Champion Shane Cook, a versatile Ontario player who’s mastered a variety of styles. Also on the recording are New Brunswick fiddler Ray Legere and Nova Scotia guitarist Skip Holmes - guaranteed to be an intriguing meeting of musical minds! Available Spring 2008.
